We,
THE CLASS OF '50
express our thanks to everyone who has helped toward the success of this year's WHIRLPOOL

We, the Class of 1950, dedicate this edition of the WHIRLPOOL to Mr. Flye, who has efficiently performed his duties at Pennell for the past eleven years. We hope he will stay with us many more.

Always present whenever he's needed;
Unpleasant tasks never go unheeded.
To lend a hand is his desire;
In the students' estimation
One couldn't rank higher.

Coöperation — Dependable — Efficient,
In these features he ranks high;
He's also a good friend to everyone.
That's our Janitor — Mr. Flye.

JEANETTE BISHOP, '50.

EDITORIALS

THE SCHOOL YEARBOOK

The school yearbook is coming into its own in more schools every year. The greater emphasis placed on journalism in the colleges is spreading into the secondary field.

The value of this project is many sided. The students learn to work together; they express their opinions and talk them over in groups. The exchange of yearbooks with other schools helps to develop friendly competition and to broaden viewpoints. The business managers receive invaluable experience not only in soliciting advertising, but also in conducting all the business transactions involved, in such a way as to make the project a financial success. More interest is aroused in writing stories, poems, and special articles for English classes if the students feel that their work may be brought before the public in print. Perhaps the most lasting value of a yearbook is that it produces a permanent record of the happenings of the current year and statistics about the students in a school.

To put out a yearbook like our WHIRLPOOL requires a lot of time and work, but we feel that the result is worth all our efforts. The students take pride in making each year's book better than the preceding ones and strive for some individual distinction for their book. This year a complete list of Pennell graduates is to be included with the addresses. This list has been compiled by the alumni with great pains, and we hope that it will prove to be complete and appreciated by readers of this WHIRLPOOL.

P. WHITNEY, '50.

TESTS

Did you ever enjoy taking a test? This year two such tests were given to all the students at Pennell. The first was a preference test. There were no formal questions in the test; instead, each student picked from a number of activities what he or she enjoyed the most and the least. In this way the student's likes and dislikes could be determined in their varying degrees.

After this test we were given an aptitude test which showed in what field we excelled. By comparing these two tests we formed a pretty good idea of what courses would benefit us most in high school.

In some cases we found we had natural ability in fields we had never thought of before.

These tests should be given to all Freshmen, for it is much easier to fit the course to the student, than the student to the course.

These tests are proving a step toward improving the guidance program in the school by promoting individualism in the choice of future occupations.

DO GIRLS HAVE A FAIR SHOW IN SPORTS?

I say that the girls of today do not have a fair show in athletics. Why? Because they do not have an equal chance with the boys; for example, a girls' team that I know of has been down and out, but there were enough interested girls to start and finance a basketball team with help from their parents; they have advanced considerably, winning about 5 per cent of their games. Although there are only about 10 to 15 girls interested, they have practiced faithfully, but what do they or any other girls' team get from it? Nothing. The girls can't even enter the Triple C anymore.

Why are the girls of today any different from what they were 30 years ago? Back in 1912, girls' basketball was the up and coming sport; girls traveled miles to play and stay over night. Why can't we bring girls' basketball back? In every school a girl should be given an equal chance with a boy in sports.

Basketball is fun to play, but it also teaches fair play, team work (that is a very important factor), self control, and above all good sportsmanship, which every team should have.

A recent article in the Sunday Telegram showed Maine's own Margaret Chase Smith as an ardent advocate of sports for girls, and we feel sure that her active participation in sports while in high school helped her in developing some of the many admirable qualities that she shows today in the Senate.

SENIOR REPORT

On September 17, the dignified Senior Class of '49 met for the first time with two new members in our midst—Beatrice "Beze" Rolfe and Madaline Blake. We elected the following officers:

President, Barbara Tufts.

Vice President, Kenneth Skilling.

Secretary, Erminie Crandall.

Treasurer, Priscilla Pollard.

Student Council, Joan Wilson and Malcolm MacDonald.

On October 29, we sponsored a Hallowe'en Dance for the benefit of our class trip to New York and Washington which we take in April. The Kiwanis Club sponsored a dance on New Year's Eve for the benefit of our class trip, and it was greatly appreciated by us all. We also held a Valentine Dance on February 18 and at that time, Carole Muzzy, '51, was chosen "Miss P. I. of 1949."

Our illustrious class was represented in basketball by Kenneth Skilling, John Cobb, and Malcolm MacDonald. The cheerleader was "Beze" Rolfe.

Austin Kuch represented us in the Inter-scholastic Riding Meet held at the Tomlinson Riding School in Stroudwater on December 2. He did the school and the class proud by walking off with the first prize in the race and the third prize in the style show.

On December 10, we presented the three-act play, "The Show Must Go On." Many thanks to Mrs. Dempsey and Mr. Fred Skillings for their help and coöperation!

Those whose names graced the honor roll this year are: Norma Bishop, Barbara Tufts, Austin Kuch, Robert Hatch, and Erminie Crandall.

It is with regret that we leave the scene of our happiest hours this June but we will always carry with us at least part of the knowledge and all of the pleasant memories imparted to us by our teachers and friends during our "Happy School Days."

ERMINIE CRANDALL,

Secretary.

THE SENIOR PLAY

THE SHOW MUST GO ON

The members of the versatile Senior Class, talented actors all, this year chose a play which called for a number of characters exactly equal to the number of students, which is fourteen—seven boys and seven girls. Despite the fact that we had a limited time for practice and rehearsal, that John Cobb and Dick Lashua were frequently engrossed in a friendly game of craps, and that Ken Morey was continually searching for his playbook which had a peculiar wanderlust due to a certain young lady whom one "Kennie" Skilling is in a better position to name than I, the play went over in a manner which may be termed good, if not excellent.

The play concerned a group of post-graduates who have formed a dramatic club and are striving to prepare a play in spite of the opposition presented by the egotistical father of the leading lady, with the result that there is a small scale verbal war in the Stanley family; however, youth and love triumph with the help of an understanding mother, and harmony reigns again.

There were four leading parts in the play: Norma Bishop and Barbara Tufts performed excellently as the leading ladies, and Robert Hatch as the clowning younger brother, did a good job of keeping the audience happy. As for the second male lead, perhaps the less said, the better. At the head of the supporting cast, Kenneth Skilling, as Ruth's would-be suitor, served reluctantly, but as a good soldier. In truth, the entire cast was more than good.

AUSTIN KUCH, '49.

JUNIOR CLASS REPORT

The noble class of 1950 entered Pennell Institute this fall with a total enrollment of 23 members, including four new students — Barbara Witham, Sally Roth, Isabella Evans, and Edward Butler.

During the course of the first six weeks Sally left us; two weeks later, Peggy Robinson, who had been with us since our class first entered high school, moved to Hallowell. This brought our class enrollment down to 21 members. Later on, however, we were joined by Barbara Keene, Mary Thurlow, and Anna Callaghan.

At our first class meeting, we elected the following class officers: President, Dolores Worden; Vice President, Helen Sawyer; Secretary, Jeanette Bishop; Treasurer, James Verrill; Student Council Members, Patricia Carll and Robert Webb.

Members of the class who participated in active sports were as follows: Girls —

Patricia Carll, Dorothy Beck, Ellen Kimball, Marion Foster, and Helen Sawyer. Boys — Robert Webb, James Verrill, and John Merrill.

The following cheerleaders were chosen from the Junior Class: Barbara Witham, Jeanne Butler, and Jeanette Bishop.

All members of the class are on the Yearbook Staff and have worked hard to make the yearbook a success. We have greatly appreciated the untiring efforts of our faculty advisor, Mrs. Dempsey, who has helped us considerably in all of our projects, which proves why both our Junior Prom and play, "A Case of Suspension," were great successes.

The Junior Class of 1950 feels that this past year has been very prosperous for us, and we wish to thank all those who have made this success possible.

JEANETTE BISHOP, '50.

JUNIOR NIGHT

The inimitable Junior Class of Pennell Institute presented Junior Night, March 11, 1949. The whole class participated. We presented a one-act comedy, "A Case of Suspension." The actors threw themselves into it whole heartedly, especially when the food was brought on.

Beady Marr as an Irish maid was excellent, and Dot Beck, Ellen Kimball, Jeanette Bishop, Patty Carll, and Barb Keene really played their parts as scheming school girls. Jim Verrill, Phil Whitney, Wendell White, and Martin Barker showed considerable proficiency in climbing through the window. Ed

Butler as Professor Dempsey and Dolores Worden as Miss Judkins really made typical teachers.

We all thought the play was a great success.

After the play we presented an amateur show. Prizes were awarded to the following: Donnie and Jean Libby, first; Pamela Wilson, second; and Burchard and Lloyd Dunn, third. Everyone in the class was on some committee and coöperated wonderfully.

SOPHOMORE CLASS

Second row: H. Hansen, R. Morton, A. Quint, H. Libby, R. White, R. Sawyer, R. MacDonald

Third row: R. Sayward, M. Henry, C. Bilter, W. Anderson, A. Berry, V. Sawyer, B. Smith.

Fourth row: M. Butler, F. Ayer, G. Tufts, W. Wallace, H. Cobb, C. Duplisea, D. Quint, R. Marsh.

THE SOPHOMORE REPORT

We started our Sophomore year with 29 members. Richard Morton was the only new member.

At the first class meeting, Richard Ayer was re-elected President; Cora Leach, Vice President; Audrey Todd, Treasurer; and Muriel Verrill, Secretary. Our Student Council members are Carole Muzzy and Paul Bowen.

We held Freshman Reception on September 24. We hope the Freshmen had as much fun as we did planning it.

A number of our boys and girls went out for sports. Girls going out for basketball were Rita Sayward, Marilyn Butler, Muriel Henry, and Muriel Verrill. Boys who went out for basketball were Richard Ayer, Richard Morton, Frederick Ayer, Paul Bowen, Hubert Cobb, Carl Duplisea, Horace Libby, and Robert Sawyer. Gerald (Buzzy) Humphrey was the manager. Those who were in the Swim Meets were Cora Leach, Muriel Verrill, Frederick Ayer, William Wallace, and Richard Morton.

At the Valentine Dance, February 18, Carole Muzzy was chosen "Miss P. I."

Gordon Tufts, who represented us in the Riding Meet, came back with two ribbons.

The two who represented Pennell in foul shooting were from our class, Richard Ayer and Rita Sayward.

Our Minstrel Show on March 25th was ably directed by Mrs. Norman Libby and Mr. and Mrs. Karl Libby. Our pianist was Mrs. Elbert Sawyer. In spite of the fact that measles interfered somewhat with our production it was a grand success.

The Endmen were: Robert Sawyer, Richard Ayer, Robert White, Paul Bowen, Gerald Humphrey, Horace Libby, Gordon Tufts, and Cora Leach as "Topsy." Soloists were: Cecile Bilter, Beverly Smith, Ruth Marsh, Audrey Todd, Carl Duplisea, Bill Wallace. A duet was sung by Bill Wallace and Carole Muzzy. Arthur Quint was the Interlocutor. The rest of the class sang in the chorus. Two little girls from out of town did a tap dance.

We had fun galore rehearsing for this event and feel that we have received invaluable training in coöperation as well as experience in appearing before the public.

We've had a most enjoyable year and hope the next two years will be as pleasant.

M. VERRILL, '51.

FRESHMAN CLASS

Second row: R. Douglass, C. Barter, O. Brown, R. White, L. Libby, M. Brown, R. Strout, R. Lashua.

Third row: Wilbert Whitney, Warren Whitney, J. Bartlett, B. Brown, J. Libby, Al Johnson, B. Ferri, A. Ferri.

Fourth row: R. Peterson, J. Bunnell, R. Libby, C. Tripp, A. Berry, G. Richardson, E. Marr, C. Nason, R. Berry.

FRESHMAN CLASS REPORT

School opened September 13, 1948. We were familiar with Pennell because we attended it last year in the eighth grade. We started the year with 31 pupils. Before six weeks went by another pupil, Joan Bartlett, joined us. She had been in our grade once before but had moved away.

We dreaded Freshman Reception but when it came I think most of the Freshmen had fun. I think some of us had more fun than the Sophomores.

At the first class meeting the following officers were elected: Jay Rand, President; Eugene Leach, Vice President; Charles Qualey, Treasurer; Robert Skilling, Secretary.

Members elected to the Student Council from our class were Ralph Taylor and Lois Henry.

The Freshman Class was pretty well represented in boys' basketball this year. Those who made the team were: Ralph Taylor, Eugene Leach, Lawrence Libby, Osborne Brown, and Robert Skilling.

The Freshman girls who made the team were Barbara Pollard and Barbara Brown.

Barbara Pollard was chosen as the cheerleader from our class.

Those who tried out for fall baseball were as follows: Eugene Leach, Ralph Taylor, Osborne Brown, Charles Qualey, Lawrence Libby, and Robert Skilling.

LITERARY

THE DARE

Jonesboro was a town that you might find anywhere, with its white churches, schools and small stores. There were trees in front of the old houses, and one could see many small white houses—upstarts with their new shrubbery. And like other small towns, they had their small social groups. There was O'Leary, the cop; Shultze, the butcher; Parrow, the barber; and a few other small business men. There was also Smith who worked in an office. No one seemed to know quite what he did: for he was a small, mousey, unimportant person. Although he was always at the club meeting, they seldom asked his opinion, and he never ventured to give it; he might as well have been the invisible man.

On the outskirts of the town was a cemetery. In the daylight it was a pretty place with the trees and green grass, but under the curtain of night, it took on a different aspect. The trees took on the garments of giants, and wind whistled through them like eerie musicians playing a death march. So it wasn't queer that many people preferred to walk around it, rather than save themselves a few steps and go through it to get home.

One winter's eve the talk at the club drifted around to this place, and some of the old settlers related many stories told to them by their grandparents about strange people who dwelt there.

"'Tis strange," remarked Parrow, "that no one dares test these stories and casually saunter through there at night. Think of all the time it'd save."

"Don't look at me when you say that," said Shultze, a very superstitious person, "you won't catch me risking my neck just to prove a story."

"How about you, Smith, you walk around there every night? Why don't you try it?" returned Parrow.

"I will!" said Smith, emphatically. "I will, this very night."

"Better be careful, my boy," warned

O'Leary. "'Tis said, goblins live there."

"Yea, how'll we know whether he does or not? Maybe he'll chicken out on us."

"Oh, no!" cried Smith, seeing his moment of glory fast fading away.

"I've got an idea," said Shultze, and he turned and took a long sword from the wall. "Take this and drive it into the ground in front of a certain headstone."

"How about Mrs. Coffin's? That's the round one."

Smith put his coat on and took the sword. It was a bitter cold night, and the courage that came so easily in the warm room began to leave him. But he buttoned his coat up tighter and set out.

After he departed, the rest of the group left also, hurrying around the other way to meet him at the road to taunt him, for they were sure he would lose his nerve and walk around.

But Smith hadn't lost his nerve and was just entering the cemetery. The wind started blowing harder and heavy clouds covered the moon just as he saw the silhouette of the headstone. He imagined something following as he stumbled over a grave and broke into a run. He heard footsteps, voices, and then they disappeared. Exhausted, he stumbled over another grave and saw what he thought was the round headstone in front of him. He jumped up and fumbled with a match to make sure. He knelt down and pushed his heavy coat out of the way. He lit the match, breathed a sigh of relief, and fumbled with the sword. Why did it have to make so much noise? Someone would hear him. Maybe they already had. Maybe they were right behind him. He stabbed the sword into the earth and started to run. They had seen him and had grabbed him from behind. He could hear them playing his death march in the trees. He screamed into the wind and sank to the ground with a hopeless shudder.

Outside the gate his friends waited.

"Did I just hear a scream?" asked O'Leary.

"Must have been the wind, there's no one around here. He must have left before we got here. Let's go home. It's getting cold," said one.

The next morning they called at Smith's apartment, but the door was locked and no one answered. With a bewildered shrug, they headed for the cemetery, for it held no fear during the day. There they found Smith, frozen to death, held fast to the ground by the sword — he had pushed it through his coat in his frenzied effort to escape.

A SENIOR'S VIEW OF GRADUATION

The year of 1949 has come and with it the Class of 1949. It will be but a few weeks before this class will be graduating, with each boy and girl receiving his and her diploma with a wistful look.

Since we started as Freshmen we have looked forward to the day of graduation. We didn't seem to care so much then—just to get through the four years of high school. But now as we look back, at times we wish we were starting over again as Freshmen.

During the four years of high school, our class has had good times together, putting on dances, a prize speaking contest, the Senior Play, publishing the yearbook, and many other activities.

As I write this, our class is getting ready for our trip to New York and Washington, D. C.; we feel that it will be our last time together to have a good time. When we come back from New York and Washington, we must get ready for the big day for us, June 17, 1949.

We have been building memories that can never be forgotten. Each one of us has a picture of his classmates individually and as a class. Long after we receive our diplomas may each one of us in the Class of 1949 have fond memories of the good old school days spent at Pennell.

A SCHOOL MORNING

It is only seven o'clock in the wee hours of the morning when from somewhere below I hear, "Beady, are you going to get up?"

I turn over and try to open my eyes but all in vain. I just can't wake myself enough to answer that I am going to get up. Soon I hear footsteps on the stairs. Mom shakes me so hard she pulls me out on the cold floor. Picking myself up I try to find my slippers, but I just never do know where I left them the night before. You all know how it is. Finally I decide to get dressed instead of standing there all day in my bare feet. Can't decide what to wear to school today so I close my eyes and pick out a green skirt and a blue blouse; of course that won't do, so I try again. This time I pick out a white blouse. Gee, I'm right on time this morning. It only took me twenty-five minutes to get dressed.

I am just starting to enjoy my breakfast when the horrible thought comes to me from somewhere in my empty head that we are going to have a French test today. Jumping up from the table I start searching for that old French book. I find it on top of the piano, but I am sure that I didn't put it there. There must be spooks at my house! Every time I put something away I never can find it again in the place I am sure that I put it. Well, I sit down to the table again and start to conjugate "avoir" in the present tense and eat at the same time. This is the way it sounded. "J'ai, tu as—Nancy, please pass the butter—il a, nous avons, gulp—Mom, what comes next? You don't know? I thought that you took French in high school—Yes, I suppose it was a long time ago—crunch, crunch—Well, gee whiz, what did I say now? You said it yourself. O. K., I give up; everytime I open my mouth, I put my foot in it."

Time for the school bus! Well for crying out loud, I haven't even finished my breakfast yet. Will you tell Mr. Whitney that I will get the bus on the way back. Where's my kerchief? Nancy took it again today? Well, darn her! I wish she'd wear her own clothes sometime. (On the bus): Hi, Bea! No, I guess I'll sit alone so that I can study my French.—Well, here we are at the school already.

Nineteen

Bell is ringing as we enter the main hall. I dash up to the French room only to find out that although we have French today, there's no test because the French newspaper that we get once a week has arrived. Golly am I ever glad that we aren't having the test today. Then I remember that I'll only have to go through the same torture again tomorrow. Woe is me! What chance is there for a girl at Pennell Institute. Just tell me, will you?

COURTESY

Courtesy has been defined as politeness combined with kindness. It is one of the qualities most to be desired in young people and yet, unfortunately, it is a trait too often lacking.

Boys and girls with fine manners always win the confidence, admiration, and pride of everyone they come in contact with.

It has been said that "politeness never yet made a gentleman." This is true of false courtesy but a true gentleman, however, is one who is polite and courteous at all times as a result of a kind heart. Kindness is courtesy put into action.

Courtesy is necessary in every walk of life—in the business world, a courteous clerk attracts buyers while a rude one turns customers away. In the home there should be courtesy in order to have peace and happiness. It consists in helpfulness, kindness toward our parents and brothers and sisters, and cheerfulness.

Courtesy is simply showing consideration for others. We should try to develop this quality every day by performing daily acts of courtesy at home, at school, and on the street. We can try to show more consideration for our teachers, our schoolmates, and our parents.

As the conduct of a student body reflects greatly the character of the school, we should try to make it all that it should be by practicing the simple rules of courtesy every day. We should not cast any reflections on our school, home, or parents by failing to observe these rules.

THE JAZZ-MASTER

Ask anyone who knows good music about jazz; ask him about the "Jelly-roll Blues." Nine out of ten will tell you that "Jelly-roll Blues" is jazz, real jazz. But then ask him why it is real jazz, why it is popular. Nine out of ten will be unable to answer, but the answer is a funny little man in a dark suit, saddle-back shoes, and a trumpet; none other than Bunny Berrigan himself, and his golden trumpet. In nineteen hundred and forty a nation-wide poll voted Bunny Berrigan the best trumpet player in the world; and it was Bunny Berrigan who made "Jelly-roll Blues" famous.

But now Bunny Berrigan is dead, and the outside world has forgotten him; but Bunny's world, the world of jazz, is still mourning, and as long as wax platters continue to be made, the world of jazz will continue to mourn.

Bunny gave his life for his country as surely as any hero who died in battle, and greater still is the fact that Bunny did it willingly, even eagerly.

Bunny had made a lot of songs famous, but only one was greater than "Jelly-roll Blues," and that one was "I Can't Get Started" which Bunny adopted as his orchestra theme song. That song called for a trumpet to reach E sharp above high C, not just once, but five times—the hardest song in the books. When the war broke out in 1941, Bunny began touring the country, putting on U. S. O. benefit performances, but after three months his lungs "went back on" him. Doctor after doctor warned Bunny to quit and let a younger man serve, but Bunny refused. Finally, though, even Bunny admitted that he was through, but he said he would put on a last and great show for the boys in the service. The show went on without a theme song until, just before closing time, requests for "I Can't Get Started," began to come in. Bunny stepped to the mike and a hush fell over the audience. There was a sad, rather wistful smile on Bunny's face as he said: "Ladies and gentlemen, I have several requests for 'I Can't Get Started.' It is my song, and as a grand finale, I will try it. However, I don't guarantee a thing about it; so if I miss a high note, I hope you'll forgive me. Here it is, ladies and gentlemen, 'I Can't Get Started.'"

Bunny raised his hand, and the orchestra began; Bunny sang his chorus, and tears came into the eyes of his musicians. Then he raised his trumpet; the melody continued; and four times E sharp above high C shrieked forth; then came the final touch where the note must be held for the last ten bars. The golden trumpet pointed skyward, and Bunny's nimble fingers adjusted the valves. The tone of the trumpet rose in pitch and volume; high C was reached, then E sharp blared forth as the orchestra melody gradually died away. Eight bars came and went, then Bunny gasped, and the note was clipped off; Bunny clutched at his chest, knowing what the trouble was: his left lung had collapsed. Then Bunny smiled, and again he raised the trumpet. The last two bars of "I Can't Get Started" rang out. Never before or since has an orchestra received such applause as Bunny received then; but there would have been tears in the eyes of the audience, just as there were tears in the eyes of Bunny, if they had known what Bunny knew: Bunny had just played his last song.

Medical science slaved over Bunny for six long months, but it was no use. Then one day he asked to have a phonograph placed beside his bed; he wanted to hear "I Can't Get Started." The record began and Bunny smiled as he heard his tenor voice singing, but when the record finished, Bunny Berrigan was dead.

That was in nineteen hundred and forty-two, but the world of jazz still has a soft spot in its heart. That soft spot is reserved for Bunny Berrigan, the King of Jazz.

BOOK REPORT

Title of Book and Author: The Big Fisherman, by Lloyd C. Douglas.

Something about the author: Lloyd Cassel Douglas was born at Columbia City, Indiana, in the year 1877. He was educated at Wittenberg College, Springfield, Ohio, and Hamma Divinity School. He was in church work until 1933, when he retired from the ministry and he now devotes all his time to writing. Some of his other widely read books are The Robe, Magnificent Obsession, Disputed Passage and Green Light.

Setting: Most of the events of the story take place in the village of Bethsaida during the time of Jesus Christ.

Plot: Fara, the Arabian-Jewish princess of Arabia, pledges herself to kill her father when, while still a child, she learns of the tormented life which he caused her mother to live. When her mother dies, Fara cuts her hair and runs away in the night, in the person of a boy, to avenge her mother. In her journey to the Tetrarch's palace, she meets John, the Baptist, who recognizes her as a girl. The two become friends and part with the hope that they will meet again.

When she reaches her destination, she is taken into the home of Simon, the fisherman, and Hannah, his mother-in-law. They soon discover that she is a girl and allow her to stay with them. David, the Sadducee, also discovers that she is a girl, but he also realizes that she is Fara, the daughter of Antipas, the Tetrarch. David assists her in getting a position in the Tetrarch's palace where she hopes to fulfill her pledge.

While all this has been taking place, Jesus, the carpenter of Nazareth, has become the talk of the whole country-side. His wondrous works and "peace and brotherly-love" doctrine have won him many followers and also many disbelieving enemies. Fara becomes one of his most ardent believers, and Simon becomes his most trusted and beloved disciple. When Jesus cures Hannah of a terrible sickness, Fara is so deeply stirred by the love and kindness of Jesus that she resolves not to keep her pledge and dedicates her life to helping Jesus in his good works. However, Voldi, her lover, eventually kills her father.

After the crucifixion of Jesus, Fara goes back to Arabia with Voldi, only to find the Arabian court hostile to her. She and Voldi then plan to run away together, but as their ship is leaving the dock, two messengers ride up with the news that Zendi, the king of Arabia, is dead, and Voldi has been declared king of Arabia. Duty calls, and Voldi goes back to serve his people while Fara continues her journey to an unknown destiny.

POET'S NOOK

ODE TO ARGUMENT

I'll not open my mouth, and
 I'll not say a word;
 I'll be as quiet as a mouse;
 I'll be seen and not heard.

But hardly a minute will Go by, wait and see,
 If you don't hear a squawk
 From quiet little me.

D. BECK, '50.

Who am I but one small speck
 In all the sky around,
 To feel and see the joys and fears
 Of something newly found?

And why does time go on and on?
 Why does it never stay?
 And why does night, with diamonds bright
 Always turn to day?

Will this go on till day or night
 Will always fill the sky?
 And why can't I live on to see
 The centuries slip by?

Are stars the diamonds of our lives?
 Or are they hope still pure?
 Or are they dreams of a new place
 Where life will stand secure?

Is there a world outside of this?
 Is there another place
 Where we may live another life
 Or show a different face.

Why will no one answer me
 These questions that I ask?
 Because imagination can
 And will assume the task.

D. BECK, '50.

ALONE

Alone—the night is dark and stealthy,
 Echoed by a soft unhealthy
 Footstep down the road.

Alone—each shiny branch is saying
 Words of warning by its swaying
 In an unknown code.

Alone—the clashing thunder shakes
 The house, while lashing lightning rakes
 The sky in shreds.

Alone—the clouds pile up in mountains;
 Rain comes down from unknown fountains
 In the clouds' high heads.

Alone—each wave is greedy, grasping,
 Reaching up while vainly gasping
 With a moaning tone.

Alone—each noise is there behind you
 Stumbling softly, trying to find you
 While you wait—alone.

D. BECK, '50.

STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE

Strawberry shortcake is my desire.
 When I think of it my heart is on fire.
 With its red, red cap and its creamy tassel
 It is almost more than I can wrestle.
 But I eat, and I eat till it comes out my ears,
 And the dreams I dream are full of fears.
 But next day I'm ready to start all over—
 With that strawberry shortcake, I'm in clover.

SALUTE TO THE TEXAS RANGERS

They were called the Texas Rangers, an undistinguished name,
 But through battling hordes of outlaws they fought their way to fame.
 They were loved by decent citizens, hated by the rest,
 Theirs was the job of enforcing the law from the Pecos River west.
 Their home was in the saddle, in the saddle was their bed,
 They rode by night, they rode by day, proud of the life they led.
 An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth was the code the Ranger knew,
 Mercy was not a part of him—he had a job to do.
 He could kill a man before breakfast; he could kill a man at noon;
 And without the least compunction, he could kill in the light of the moon.
 His partner was a broncho; his best friend was a gun;
 And a single Texas Ranger could make a regiment
 turn and run.
 He had no bosom buddy, no girl to call his own,
 For a Ranger rode a long, hard trail, and a Ranger rode alone.

AUSTIN KUCH, '49.

YOU TELL ON YOURSELF

You tell on yourself
 By the friends you seek,
 By the very manner
 In which you speak,
 By the way you employ
 Your leisure time,
 By the use you make
 Of each dollar and dime.

You tell what you are
 By the things you wear,
 By the spirit in which
 Your troubles you bear,
 By the kind of things
 At which you laugh,
 By the records you play
 On the phonograph,—
 That's how you tell on yourself.

A WINTER SCENE

A beautiful, glittering, white crust of snow I see,
 With the sun beating down as bright as can be.
 In the far away distance, I also can hear
 The call of a chick-a-dee so soft and so clear.
 Then all of a sudden the jingling of bells,
 Whence down in the valley an old farmer dwells.
 Stillness once more settles over the scene,
 And again the call of the chick-a-dee so keen.
 When you wake up some cold winter morn,
 Picture this scene as a new beauty born.

A POEM

I cannot write a poem;
 I cannot make it rhyme;
 I cannot master meter,
 Now isn't that a crime?
 I could maybe write a story,
 Or a composition, too;
 But when it comes to poems,
 There's something I can't do.

C. BARTER, '52.

THE HILLS OF GRAY

The rolling hills of Gray
 Are fairer to my eyes,
 Than any lofty mountain peak
 Snow-capped against blue skies.

I love her fine old houses,
 Her shaded village streets,
 Her orchards, lawns, and gardens,
 Where thrift with beauty meets.

On Sunday morn' the church bells,
 Their friendly greetings ring
 Calling the folks to worship,
 To meditate and sing.

There's Pennell's lofty tower—
 Symbol of learning and light,
 Standing staunch and steady
 For everything that's right.

But more than brick and mortar
 In memory set apart.
 I love the school's traditions
 And hold them in my heart.

Although I fain would wander—
 In distant lands should roam,
 I'll ever hold in memory
 The rolling hills of home.

     With a letter, we hear.
M is for Mason
     And Merrill and Marr.
N is for naughty
     Which we aren't, by far.

O is for oafs,
     Now do you think we're dumb?
P is for Phil,
     Called "Little Caesar" by some.
Q is for the quizzes,
     We all get our share.
R is for the rainy days
     That takes the curl from your hair.
S is for Satan,
     At times he's our guide.
T is for Thurlow
     And her automobile ride.
U is for you
     Who are reading this ditty.
V is for Verrill
     Who thinks Barb's quite pretty.
W is for White
     And Witham, too.
X is for xenon
     In the Chemistry we do.
Y is for the yells
     At the basketball game.
Z is for the zeal
     That's brought us our fame.
 After finishing this
     We're a mental wreck,
 So we'll just sign our names,

JOKES

Mr. Durgin was speeding to school when he was stopped by a policeman.

Policeman: "I should give you a ticket for this."

Mr. Durgin: "But I'm on my way to my Freshman Class."

Policeman: "Ignorance is no excuse."

---

Two students were about to take an exam in English literature.

"Great Scott," said one, "I've forgotten who wrote Ivanhoe!"

"I'll tell you that," replied the other, "if you'll tell me who the dickens wrote The Tale of Two Cities."

---

Mr. Dempsey in Chem. class: "What's the difference between lightning and electricity?"

Austin K.: "You have to pay for electricity."

---

Mrs. D.: "Well, Mr. Verrill, why don't you answer me?"

Jim V.: "I did. I shook my head."

Mrs. D.: "You don't expect me to hear it rattle way down here, do you?"

---

Mr. D.: "What makes the Tower of Pisa lean?"

Beady Marr: "I wish I knew—I'd like to try it."

---

One day recently at noon lunch, Mrs. Bowie was asked: "Will you pass the nuts?"

Mrs. Bowie: "Oh! I suppose so, but I really ought to flunk most of them."

---

Bobby H.: "I see your girl friend has a new hair do."

Skill: "No, she hasn't."

Bobby H.: "Well, something's different."

Skill: "It's a new girl friend."

---

Mrs. Dempsey in English class: "Give the definition of 'marital.'"

Ken Skilling: "Pertaining to war."

---

Dot: "Gosh, I just found a quarter."

Phil: "It's mine; it's got my name on it."

Dot: "Oh, yeah! What's your name?"

Phil: "E. Pluribus Unum."

Dot: "Darn it—it's yours all right."

---

Employer to Jeanette: "So you want a job?"

Jeanette: "Yes, sir."

Employer: "Do you ever tell lies?"

Jeanette: "No, sir, but I can learn."

---

Mr. Dempsey in History class: "What does Mexico produce more of than any other country?"

Jimmy G.: "Mexicans!"

---

Mrs. Skilling: "Why are you jumping up and down, 'Bib'?"

"Bib": "I took my medicine and forgot to shake the bottle."

---

John M.: "Why are you standing on your head?"

Dick L.: "I'm turning things over in my mind."

---

Mr. Durgin: "Will you give me one use for horsehide?"

Qualey: "Well, I guess it helps to hold the horse together."

---

She: "Stop! Don't kiss me."

He: "I will not stop."

She: "Well, I tried anyway."

---

Mr. Dempsey: "Since none of you finished the history assignment, the whole class will stay after school."

Phil: "Give me liberty or give me death."

Mr. Dempsey: "Who said that?"

Phil: "Patrick Henry."

---

Teacher: "What is a synonym, Bobby?"

Bobby: "That's the word you use when you can't spell the other one."

---

While saying his prayers, a little boy had his mind centered on his parents' talk about our troubled world. Having prayed for everything and everybody he could remember, the lad concluded, "And please God, take care of yourself. If anything happened to you, we'd all be sunk."

---

Voice over the phone: "Wendell won't be at school today."

Teacher: "Who is this speaking, please?"

Voice: "This is my father speaking."

"Bib": "How many times were you whipped in school, Grandpa?"

Grandpa: "Oh! I don't know. I never paid any attention to things that went on behind my back."

THINGS TO REMEMBER AT PENNELL

Loud noise of bell (8.45 sharp).

Broken pencil sharpener.

Eddie Butler's destructiveness.

Crowded girls' room.

Horrible English tests.

SWIMMING MEETS

This year the boys and girls who entered the swimming meets showed great improvement. The girls who competed were: Cora Leach and Patricia Carll, 25-yard free style; Dorothy Beck, breast stroke; Peggy Robinson, back stroke; Muriel Verrill, Cora Leach, Dorothy Beck, and Pat Carll, the relay.

The boys were: James Verrill and Frederick Ayer, 25-yard free style; Richard Morton and John Merrill, 50-yard free style; John Merrill, 100-yard free style; James Verrill, 50-yard breast stroke; Frederick Ayer, William Wallace, James Verrill, and Richard Morton, the relay.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

Well, another season has come and gone, and here we all are again—a year older, but oh,—ages wiser. We shouldn't brag, but we really think we "done noble," as you will see as you read our record.

We won six games out of thirteen starts this year. We played the following teams:

Pennell	47	Alumni	23
Pennell	24	At Scarborough	25
Pennell	23	At Standish	27
Pennell	34	At New Gloucester	38
Pennell	22	Windham	39
Pennell	37	Potter	23
Pennell	21	At Potter	16
Pennell	34	Scarborough	39
Pennell	38	Freeport	35
Pennell	36	At Freeport	22
Pennell	33	New Gloucester	73
Pennell	44	Standish	37
Pennell	34	At Windham	39

We scored 427 points this year against our opponents' 436. Rita Sayward was high with 211 points. She was followed by Barbara Pollard, with 103, and Patty Carll with 94.

Patty Carll — Elected captain again this year. Good player, swell sport, team inspiration, and in there fighting every minute.

Rita "Stretch" Sayward — Tall, lanky, on-the-backboard type; teams always put their best guards on "Stretch," but it doesn't seem to do them much good.

Barbara "Barb" Pollard — Good fighter, nice passer, good on defense, but don't ever get "Barb" mad. When they do, a whole army can't stop her.

Dorothy "Dot" Beck — Our wee, wee one, never a complaint, and we just dare you to try and dribble around her. Can't be done!

Muriel "Sis" Verrill — Tall, cheerful

(yes, she's cheerful even as she takes the ball away from the forwards). Always gets 'em off the backboard. She gives any team a bad time.

Helen Sawyer — Quietly gives 'em room, then just as quietly moves in and takes the ball away from them. What more can you ask?

Marion Foster — Everybody sits and gapes as Marion wows them with those beautiful long shots.

Other players who could be depended upon were:

Barbara Brown — Only a Freshman, out to learn, "Barb" has come along fast. A lot of action this year, even more next year. And—if we need a forward—why she can do that, too.

Muriel Henry — You can always depend on a big grin from "Fatty," just as you can always depend on her for a good game.

Marilyn Butler — She always scores when you least expect it. Need we say more?

Barbara Keene — A new fare in our ranks. She's fast mastering Pennell techniques. We'll see you next year, "Barb."

Ellen Kimball — She's our manager, our mother hen, our guardian, our foreman on the job, and our good pal. Could we get along without her? Sure, just as well as we could get along without our right arms.

We're not going to lose a girl by graduation this year. We're all looking forward to another season — pardon us, another GOOD season—next year.

You've read our story. Now tell us, was it luck, or could it be a certain green sweater?

HANCOCK JUNIOR HIGH

Thanks to Mr. Calvin Austin, of Falmouth, a Junior High Triple C League was formed this year. Coached by "Andy" Laughton, our own Gray cagers walked off with the league championship trophy, losing only one league game.

We played the following teams:

*Gray	23	At Cumberland	12
*Gray	23	Freeport	17
*Gray	10	Falmouth	11
Gray	18	At Yarmouth	20
*Gray	27	Scarborough	16
*Gray	19	Cumberland	14
*Gray	24	At Freeport	15
*Gray	22	At Falmouth	15
Gray	17	Yarmouth	37
*Gray	23	At Scarborough	16

* Triple C games.

Gray scored 206 points to their opponents' 173. High scorer was Dale Maxwell with 55 points, followed closely by Ken Hayes with 44, Joe Ferri with 27, Eddie Strout with 33, and Maurice Thompson with 16.

Members of the squad are: Maurice Thompson, Dale Maxwell, Eddie Strout, Ken Hayes, Joe Ferri, Bob Gibbs, Dick Carr, Sterns Caswell, Clint Nason, Burchard Dunn, John Hamilton, John Doughty, David Copp and Peter Currie.

At the end of the season, the boys elected Dale Maxwell captain.

Only three boys — Ken Hayes, Maurice Thompson, and Burchard Dunn are graduating, but Junior High's loss will be Pennell's gain.

CLASS CONSCIOUSNESS

Night Life—

Freshman: "Mama, may I go out to-night?"

Sophomore: "Going out, mom. Be home by 10."

Junior: "Bye, Ma. Don't wait up."

Senior: "Night, Mater. I'll bring in the milk."

Dolores: "Will you join me in a cup of coffee?"

Ellen: "Don't be silly, you know we can't both get in that little cup."

Teacher to Freshman girl late for class: "What kept you?"

Barb: "Gym."

Teacher: "Please reveal his last name."

Shakesperian—

Freshman: "Comedy of Errors."

Sophomore: "Much Ado About Nothing."

Junior: "As You Like It."

Senior: "All's Well That Ends Well."

Mr. Laughton: "I'd like to know why it is you are never working when I come into the room."

Norma: "It's because you wear rubber heels."

You Tell 'Em—

You can tell a Freshman by the way she gawks,

You can tell a Sophomore by the way she talks,

You can tell a Junior by the way she walks.

You can tell a Senior—But You Can't Tell Her Much!

Mrs. Dempsey: "You should have been here an hour ago."

Martin: "Why, what happened?"

"Wallace, you mustn't laugh out loud in the classroom."

"I didn't mean to do it. I was smiling and the smile busted."

But, Don't you Love School? Well, 'Turally, 'Itively and 'Finitely.

(That's the new way to say, "Natch," "Pos" and "Def.")

"Isabella, who was Anne Boleyn?"

"She was a flatiron."

"What on earth do you mean?"

"Well, it says in the history book: 'Henry, having disposed of Catherine, pressed his suit with Anne Boleyn.'"

Mr. Dempsey: "What is rhubarb?"

Bill Wallace: "Rhubarb is celery gone bloodshot."

"What is a cannibal?"

"I don't know."

"If you ate your father and mother what would you be?"

"An orphan."

Mr. Durgin: "Beze, leave the room."

Beze: "Why?"

Mr. Durgin: "Well, you can't very well take it with you."

Ellen (to her brother, who was staying at the Y. M. C. A.): "Are the rooms in there very large?"

Gordon: "They are so small that the mice crawl around on their hands and knees."

Mrs. Dempsey asked her English class to make some remarks on the subject, "Books that have helped me."

Jim Verrill: "My mother's cookbook and my father's checkbook."
